

Marilyn Monroe Found Dead: Overdose of Sleeping Tablets

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marilyn Monroe's body lay unclaimed in the county morgue today—the tragic climax of a lifetime of personal sorrow that even wealth and fame couldn't ease.

She was found dead early Sunday in the cluttered bedroom of her $75,000 Brentwood home, an empty bottle of sleeping pills near her body.

Schoolboys could recite her famous measurements (37-23-37) and her photos, nude and otherwise, had appeared in practically every periodical in the world.

But on her coroner's call sheet, tagged to Crypt 33 in the morgue, were these unrevealing statistics: Weight 117 pounds, height 55½ inches, hair blonde and eyes blue.

Next of kin—Gladys Baker, mother. Address unknown.

The coroner's office said it

End of a tragic life

has received a telegram from news of his former wife's death.

Miller became Miss Monroe's third husband in 1956. They were divorced last year.

Miller said he had not been in touch with Marilyn for "about a year." He said he did not plan to go to Los Angeles for her funeral.

Marilyn's first husband was James Dougherty, an aircraft worker who she married at the age of 16. At 20 she was divorced from him.

Meanwhile, a special coroner's so-called suicide team prepared a series of tests to officially determine whether the 36-year-old actress accidentally or intentionally took the overdose of pills that investigators believe killed her.

Coroner Theodore J. Curphy said psychiatric tests would play an important part in the verdict.

"Our investigation so far shows that she did not die a natural death, and we can make a presumptive opinion that death was due to an overdose of a drug."

'TOO BEAUTIFUL TO DIE'

LONDON (CP)—The front pages of the world's newspapers today paid tribute to the magic memory of Marilyn Monroe, the star whose sex appeal coupled with little-girl charm captivated millions.

'Way of Life' Blamed By Vatican

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican City newspaper Observatore Romano today expressed "profound pity" at the death of actress Marilyn Monroe.

"We cannot help but reflect that La Monroe is the victim of a mentality, of a custom, of a conception of life which makes one a symbol," the newspaper said.

"In her unhappy event," the newspaper said, "she resembles many others who remain unknown because they have not reached the fame which destroyed the American actress.

"The drama and the tragedy, also if suffered in silence, carries the same penalties, the same responsibilities. The case of Miss Monroe, therefore, is an unhappy example."

Inferiority Complex

LONDON (AP)—"She had a terrific inferiority complex. She loved films, she lived for her career—and yet she was scared to death every time she walked on a set."

Marilyn Monroe's discoverer was talking—Ben Lyon, the veteran actor who also renamed her. Lyon and his wife, Bebe Daniels, now live in London.

"She walked into my office in California one day in 1946 when I was casting director for 20th Century-Fox," Lyon recalled.

"She was beautiful. I saw right away that she had the makings of a great star, and gave her a seven-year contract at $75 a week. She was thrilled to death."

"I told her her own name—she was plain Norma Jean Doughtery then—would have to be changed. I picked Marilyn. She wanted Monroe because it was her grandmother's name."

The story of the blonde beauty's sudden death in Hollywood was splashed across the headlines in every continent and inside the pages were filled with words of sorrow and admiration from her shocked co-workers.

In Europe, her death overshadowed the news of the resumption of Soviet nuclear testing and European Common Market negotiations.

In the London Daily Mail he had a headline read "Marilyn's Agony" and in the London Daily Herald "The Unhappy Goddess."

The mass-circulation Paris-Jour called her "a woman who was too beautiful to die" and the conservative Le Parisien "a cinematographic symbol of triumphant femininity."

Even TASS, the official Soviet news agency, devoted 100 words to her death and the Rome Communist newspaper L'Unità gave it a four-column headline.

TALKED OF EPITAPH

Donald Zec, London Daily Mirror writer, reported a conversation with Miss Monroe in which she once told him "I'll settle for this" as an epitaph. "Here lies Marilyn Monroe—38, 23, 36."

"The lovely, dazzling tormented creature had sold herself short. The glowing flame has died—and the world that cherished it has lost a little of its warmth."

Italian actresses Sophia Loren and Gina Lollobrigida, two of her few rivals in the realm of sexual glamor, were shocked by the news of Marilyn's death.

Miss Loren, in bed with laryngitis, burst into tears.

"She was a real star," Miss Loren said. "Now all we can do is pray for her."

Miss Lollobrigida said:

"I am naturally very, very sorry. I knew her. She was a nice girl. I am greatly surprised."

Director Billy Wilder deduced from headlines and reactions of people on the streets that it wasn't merely the passing of a Hollywood star. Said he: "It was like the shock wave that hit the world when Valentino died."

Wilder, who directed the star in Some Like It Hot and later

Russia Tests Super A-Bomb

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—Russia has launched a new nuclear test series with a super-bomb blast that Swedish scientists placed in the 40-megaton range, second only to the 50-megaton blast the Russians set off last October.

The first blast, Sunday, apparently touched off at Soviet atomic test grounds in Arctic Siberia, came as no surprise. Premier Khrushchev had announced Russia would have to resume testing because of the U.S. Pacific tests now being concluded.

The U.S. state department called the Soviet explosion a "sombre episode" but made clear it will not halt U.S. efforts to get a nuclear test ban.

The telegram read: "We explore the shocking disregard for world opinion, as witnessed by the U.S.S.R. nuclear test today. We condemn all nuclear tests—by East or West."

Estimates varied as to the size of the Soviet explosion Sunday believed to have been off the Island of Novaya Zemlya, about 1,350 miles east of Uppsala.

Uppsala University's Seismological Institute classed it in the range of 40,000,000 tons of TNT and said it occurred at a higher altitude than the Soviet series of 1961.

A Norwegian scientist said his instruments showed only that it was smaller than the 50-megaton bomb set off Oct. 30.

The Japanese Meteorological Institute estimated the blast in the 20-megaton range.

At the Cenotaph, a war memorial in the heart of London, a group of young mothers stood with bowed heads in drenching rain as part of a 12-hour vigil to honor the dead of the Japanese city and all victims of atomic explosions.

He said Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin knows full well the West will not destroy all its nuclear weapons vehicles until it is certain all Soviet means of delivery have been eliminated.

Inspection teams would have to cover all territories where vehicles might be to make sure none was hidden.

Dean Tackles Zorin Again

GENEVA (Reuters)—Arthur gate, told the 17-nation disarmament conference today he plans to continue private, informal meetings with Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin in an effort to reach agreement on a nuclear test-ban.

However, Zorin told reporters that he found nothing promising in new U.S. proposals for a test-ban treaty after listening to Dean outline them Sunday at their first private meeting.

Quads Doing Well

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hospital officials said today Mrs. Ruth Becker and her four-day-old quadruplets are progressing well.

The Japanese Atomic Energy Commission said only that "the Soviet Union detonated a nuclear weapon in the megaton range."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

People in the department of Recreation and Conservation have decided that their title is too unwieldy. Inside the organization, it's been rechristened the "Fun and Games" department.

The province's new $45,000 statue behind the legislative buildings has already "taken a bath." Some joker dropped a box of detergent into the fountain and workmen were compelled to drain it over the weekend.

Prime Minister John Robarts of Ontario is no stranger to Victoria. He was a gunner officer aboard HMCS Uganda when she returned here from the Pacific wars in August, 1945, landing at the naval dockyard just two days before Japan sued for peace.

Approximately two seconds after Mayor Dick Wilson unveiled the bronze statue of Her Majesty in Beacon Hill Park Sunday afternoon an elderly lady exclaimed in a boisterous voice: "I think it's awful!" Sculptor Art Price, who was standing nearby, grinned and said: "Everyone is entitled to his own opinion."

Overheard at a recent sunset ceremony was the following two-and-a-half-year-old's remark to her father as the soldiers raised their rifles:

"Look, Daddy, they're going to shoot down the flag."

An instructional movie on the safe use of firearms is now being prepared by Dick Colby and the B.C. government's film unit.

"Many people think it is time such a movie was made," Mr. Colby said.

Other movies coming along are "Duck Lake," the story of bird migration; "Big Game," and the opening of the Rogers Pass Highway.

"We hear so many jokes around here about Oak Bay," said a lady from Nevada. "What is it — a rest home?"

Not quite.

A Times reporter was bundled off last week to cover a speech by His Excellency Raymond Bousquet, France's Ambassador to Canada. Arriving at the meeting, he found it was the L'Alliance Francaise group and that everyone, including the ambassador, was speaking French.

Rushing to a phone, he sent an SOS to Lieut. Cmdr. D. J. Williams, a French instructor with the Navy's Officer Training School.

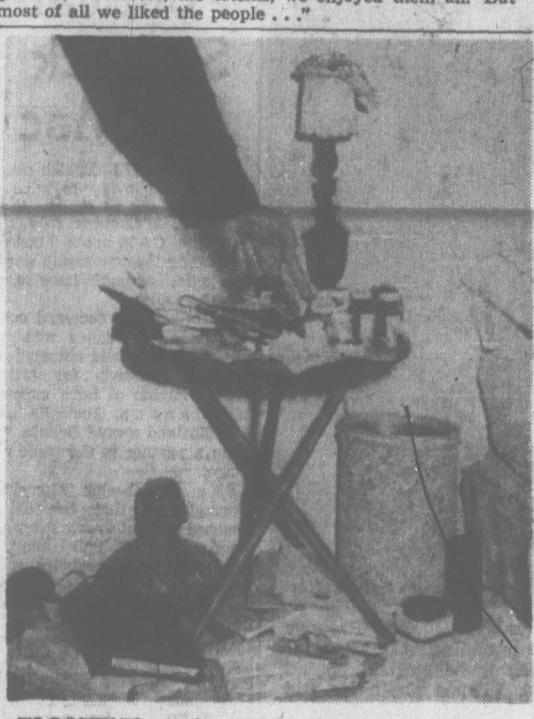

"I'll be right over," the genial interpreter laughed.

The "ship" was saved.

Encouraging . . . "Victoria holds a particular charm for my husband and I, for we spent our honeymoon there some 14 years ago," writes Mrs. L. W. Salyer from 1905 Donnington, Glenora, California.

"Recently we came again — this time in a tent with four children, fully realizing that such a trek might well take the sheen off any well-remembered memory.

"Our stay only put a further glow on our liking for Victoria; to us it had not changed appreciably—the beautiful gardens, the drives, the totems, we enjoyed them all. But most of all we liked the people . . ."

complained about her behavior, added:

"Maybe she was tough to work with. Maybe she wasn't even an actress. But it was worth a week's torment to get those three luminous minutes on the screen."

Sir Laurence Olivier agreed she was difficult to work with, but added:

"She could be incredibly sweet, most tenderly appealing, and very, very witty."

Olivier starred with her and directed her in The Prince and the Showgirl. He blamed Hollywood for making her "the complete victim of ballyhoo and sensationalism."

French writer-director Jean Cocteau also blamed Marilyn's death on a public hungry for personal details of her life.

"This atrocious death will be a terrible lesson for those whose principal occupation consists in spying on and tormenting the film stars," he commented.

"If anyone had asked me to compile a list of people who I thought might commit suicide, I would have put her name on it," said Dame Edith Sitwell, one of Britain's leading literary lights who became a friend of the actress during meetings in Hollywood.

"Somehow she seemed fated to be sad. The poor girl . . . it's just too sad."

Photographer Cecil Beaton, who found her the world's most photogenic woman, said:

"It was a pleasure to be her friend. But I always felt that Marilyn was doomed to a sad end."

He said it might be 48 hours before it can be announced.

Thus in death the screen's sex goddess left behind the same mysterious personality contrast that she evinced in life.

MOBBED BY FANS

As Marilyn Monroe, movie star, she was under a public microscope—exciting, wanted and mobbed by fans.

Her more than 20 movies since her first big break in The Asphalt Jungle in 1950 had grossed $200,000,000.

At the banks that finance movies, her name on a contract meant unlimited credit for a producer.

Only her last two movies, Let's Make Love and The Misfits, had been disappointing at the box office—a fact which distressed her.

She seemed happy as Marilyn Monroe, the star, with the spotlights beaming brightly.

But when the lights went off in her lonely bedroom, the dreams of Marilyn Monroe, the sex symbol, became the nightmares of Norma Jean Baker, lost wife in a lost world.

Few movie scripts will ever match the drama of the Marilyn Monroe story, the beautiful girl who had everything—but personal happiness.

CHILDHOOD TRAGIC

Every movie fan knew the details of her childhood—as tragic as her death.

The unwanted, the unloved walf, boarded at county expense in a variety of foster homes . . . a little girl who washed dishes and scrubbed floors . . . her girlish body violated by a roomer in a foster home . . . her illegitimacy by a father she never saw . . . a mother she seldom saw outside of mental homes.

And all the while dreaming of becoming a movie star—and, when she did, her insecure childhood failed to cushion her against the shocking insecurity of the Hollywood jungle.

Marilyn died proving that peace of mind cannot be bought—even on an income of $1,000,000 a picture.

In 1961, she lost two babies while married to Miller. Then came a frustrated love affair with married Yves Montand, the breakup of her marriage to Miller because of it, and the untimely death of Clark Gable, her co-star in The Misfits.

The result—two stays in New York psychiatric hospitals. Only hours before her death she had called her psychiatrist in a vain attempt to soothe her troubled nerves.

It was the same psychiatrist, called by Marilyn's housekeeper who broke into a bedroom window to find her dead.

In her hand she clutched a telephone which was off the hook.

Perhaps she had been calling for help—as she had for much of her life. A help that never came.

Friends said she was distraught in recent weeks over being fired from the film Something's Got to Give by 20th Century-Fox studio.

Jamaica Flies Own Flag

KINGSTON (Reuters) — Jamaica became independent at midnight as the black, gold and green flag of the newest member of the British Commonwealth fluttered over this Caribbean island for the first time.

Before a huge audience in the Kingston National Stadium that included Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, the British flag was hauled down, ending 307 years of British rule, and the new flag run up.

Bells rang in all the churches and schools in Jamaica's 4,000 villages and beacons and bonfires blazed from hilltops and mountains. Fireworks lit up the sky and ship sirens in Kingston Harbor hailed independence. Labor Minister Michael Starr represented Canada.

The celebrations are scheduled to last a week before Jamaicans get down to facing the serious economic problems that lie ahead.

After the Jamaican flag was run up at the National Stadium, built for the Central American and Caribbean games which open Saturday, the newly-formed Jamaican self-defence force, taking over responsibility for the island's security from the British, headed a military parade.

SING ANTHEM

As the Queen's representative, Princess Margaret, who won Jamaican hearts when she and her husband honeymooned in the Caribbean, joined in singing the island's new national anthem Sunday when it was sung for the first time at the church service of dedication for independence.

At the service, the Anglican bishop of Jamaica, Rt. Rev. P. W. Gibson, said a "new Jamaica must be hammered out by sacrifice, suffering and patient endurance."

Unlike many countries which have won independence in the last decade, Jamaica has a history of political stability and an operating two-party system. Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante heads the government. Relations between the island's 1,600,000 black, white and mixed-blood inhabitants also are good.

But the island must find financial assistance to replace Britain's grants-in-aid and if Britain joins the European Common Market the island's exports, mostly sugar, bananas and rum, will suffer.

The industrial boom which has brought $350,000,000 in foreign investment—much of it U.S. and Canadian dollars attracted by low wages—also may be hit by British membership in the Common Market.

Another problem is the threat of over-population.

Until a few months ago, emigration to Britain solved the problem of surplus labor. But with the changes in British immigration laws, and a birth rate of 52,000 annually, between 17,000 and 20,000 new workers, most of them unskilled, will be coming on the market each year.

Boy Slays Neighbors

BROOKINGS, S.D. (AP) — All five members of the Hugh Paulson family were found shot to death in the rural Volga area near here on Saturday. State's Attorney Gordon Mylly said a 16-year-old neighbor boy had admitted the shootings.

Mayor Wilson unveils bronze bust of Queen Elizabeth

200 ATTEND BUST PRESENTATION TO CITY

'Queen's Corner' Urged in Park

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The idyllic flower-grown corner of Beacon Hill Park where the new bronze bust of Queen Elizabeth now stands could be known as Queen's Corner, Times publisher Stuart Keate said Sunday.

Mr. Keate made the suggestion when the bust—a centennial gift from the Victoria Daily Times—was presented to the city and formally unveiled by Mayor R. B. Wilson in a park ceremony.

Commemorating Queen Elizabeth's visit to Victoria on July 17, 1959, the gold-toned bust looks out from a white stone plinth over a bed of Scottish heather and evergreen shrubs and clumps of fragrant lavender.

Behind is a majestic weeping willow, an ornamental pond and a rich profusion of roses. In the vicinity are a cricket pitch and the World's Tallest Totem Pole—also a Times project.

"It will add beauty to the park and will be a continuing encouragement to every artist in our city," said the mayor after removing the Union Jack which draped the new artwork.

200 SPECTATORS

A crowd of more than 200 watched the simple ceremony after Mr. Keate had introduced the two artists responsible—Peggy Walton Packard of Victoria and Arthur Price, nationally-known Ottawa sculptor.

Most spectators agreed they had captured a strong smiling likeness of the Queen, whose personality is regarded as "elusive" by sculptors and painters.

The light gold tone was a surprise to many who are accustomed to a darker shade of bronze. Mr. Price said the gold shade will remain if the bust is treated regularly with wax.

Presenting the bust to the city, "with the best wishes of The Times and all its staff," Mr. Keate recalled its "somewhat chequered history."

All But UN Flights Banned From Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — The United Nations today banned all flights, except by its own planes, to and from airports held by the UN in Katanga province.

A United Nations spokesman said the ban, which includes Elisabethville Airport, was clamped down after a request from the central government in Leopoldville. Also affected was the landing strip at the Kamina military base.

Informed sources here said this was clearly the first step to bring pressure on the government of President Moise Tshombe to end Katanga's two-year secession from the rest of The Congo and likely will be met by hostile reaction from the Katangans.

The main air service involved was that of the Belgian Airline Sabena, which operates four flights weekly between Brussels and Elisabethville and return.

DID NOT LAND

Ad. Millard Mooney and city planning officer Roderick Clack collaborated in choosing a suitable site.

"We think it is a fortunate one," Mr. Keate said, "since it stands at the confluence of three roads where there is a great deal of traffic."

Later, after erection in Beacon Hill Park, it became a regular target of vandals who chipped its nose, cheek and neck. Final mortification was the disappearance of the head, later recovered from the bottom of the Inner Harbor.

"This seemed an intolerable indignity which must be rectified," Mr. Keate said. "After all, the city of Victoria takes its name from the Queen's great-great-grandmother and we unabashedly proclaim our love for our Queen."

SHINING EXAMPLE

"On two occasions, citizens of Victoria have manifested their esteem for this wonderful lady, whose whole life has been a shining example of devotion and duty to countless millions of her subjects.

"We therefore decided it would be a fine thing to have a sculpture of her in bronze—and this was unanimously endorsed by the city council."

Alas, said Mr. Keate, the "dismal jimmies" said it was impossible to cast bronze statues in Canada. So he approached Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, to whom the word "impossible" is always a challenge.

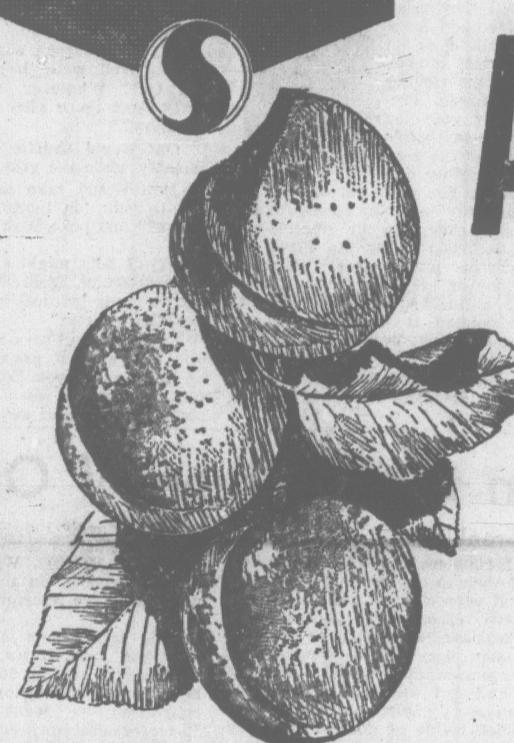

He consulted the Bay Street Foundry, and it transpired that Arthur Price of Ottawa, well-known Canadian sculptor, had spent five years of his art training in an iron foundry.

Mr. Price was commissioned to execute a bronze bust, with

Hysteria Won't Help

THE VANCOUVER PROVINCE, which ardently recommended Premier Bennett's re-election two years ago, now announces, in specially large print, that he must resign to save British Columbia's finances from ruin.

According to The Province's rather frenzied diagnosis, Mr. Bennett is either "the most arrant liar ever to occupy the highest office in the province," or he is "completely unhinged" by the cares of government, or he "is really ignorant of the true position of the province's credit position." In any case he is disqualified from the premiership and must go.

This sort of vilification will get us nowhere. Mr. Bennett heads the government of British Columbia by proper constitutional process; he commands a majority in the Legislature, he has every right to govern so long as the Legislature supports him; he need not call an election for some three years yet, and in all his health and vigor he obviously has no thought of resigning.

Nevertheless, Mr. Bennett is in deep trouble for the first time since he discovered that he was no longer a Conservative and came to office, by the back door, on the new vehicle of Social Credit.

He is in trouble politically as demonstrated by the recent federal election when he could elect only two Social Crediters in British Columbia while the New Democratic Party won ten seats.

He may be in some trouble financially, too. It would be surprising if he were not at this time of high interest rates, but any individual or newspaper takes a grave responsibility in exaggerating trouble and thus undermining British Columbia's credit.

The Province thinks the trouble exceedingly serious but offers little evidence. Mr. Bennett replies that his government's affairs are in excellent shape, have never been better. All reports to the contrary, he says, are only the partisan propaganda of his enemies.

Is this attempt at reassurance good enough? If Mr. Bennett's business is in perfect order, as he says, why does he refuse to disclose all of it?

Why doesn't he tell us, for instance, what he actually paid for his recent New York loan, the interest rate of 4½ per cent being meaningless without the undisclosed selling price and the cost of foreign exchange?

Why has he refused to say where and how he sold that mysterious issue of $25 millions in Hydro bonds last spring after brokers failed to sell it through the ordinary channels?

By his silence on such points as these Mr. Bennett has encouraged a rash of speculation, rumor and sneer not only in The Province but in much of the eastern Canadian press. British Columbia is becoming almost a byword for irresponsibility.

All this does us great damage and increases Mr. Bennett's difficulties. The damage can be cured only if he discloses all the facts, preferably at a session of the Legislature, or before an independent audit, but certainly not in the confusion of the Revelstoke by-election. For his own protection, as well as that of British Columbia, Mr. Bennett should tell the public everything, and now.

Inter-Provincial Visitors

THE CAPITAL CITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA is host this week to the visiting premiers of seven provinces and the representatives of two others. The provincial leaders will join with Premier Bennett in discussing various topics of common interest, among which the federal austerity program and federal-provincial tax relations no doubt will find a place.

The visitors will probably see familiar licence plates from their home provinces in our streets—testimony to the popularity of our tourist season and the extra attraction of our centennial celebrations. With the completion of the Trans-Canada highway such inter-provincial automobile travelling should be increased.

And although the premiers no doubt have come by air, Victorians will welcome them as the forerunners of many car-borne visitors of the future, and wish them well in discussions designed to further Canadian unity and prosperity.

Disaster Averted

THE THREAT OF CIVIL WAR in Algeria — after seven years of fighting France to achieve independence — was so serious that almost any solution to the rivalry of political factions was to be welcomed. That solution has now been gained, although not under the happiest of circumstances, and it is to be hoped that peace, and order, will be maintained until a general election can name the new country's government.

For the time being Algeria is being ruled by a committee set up by Mr. Ben Bella, who forced the ouster of Mr. Ben Khedda who since the winning of independence has headed a provisional administration. Both have their supporters, although Ben Bella appears to have won a majority in this regard.

Additional factors are the Berbers, traditionally anti-Arab, who are led by Mr. Krim; the military faction, siding with Ben Bella and controlled by Col. Boumedienne; and some 600,000 Europeans, the remainder of the former one-million population.

There are enough potential fireworks in these diverse elements to provide conflict for years. The exemplary conduct and discipline of the Moslems under OAS provocation in the later stages of the fight for independence had given hope of unity in the new state. But Ben Bella's challenge to Ben Khedda — who held office legally as part of the peace settlement with France — very nearly destroyed the prospects. Even now, although outright civil war appears to have been avoided through the present interim arrangement, old animosities have been stirred, and considerable public favor abroad has been lost.

The best thing that can happen now is for the general election to be held soon so that a majority public voice may be heard and obeyed. Most Algerians probably care little which particular individual leads them so long as the constitution can be implemented, independence safeguarded, and the country settle down to work to recoup the economic setbacks of the past few years.

That is sufficient challenge to any nation, particularly one that its newly acquired sole control of its governmental functions. With the lessons of the Congo and other self-government fiascos in mind, the West will follow the Algerian developments with interest, goodwill and, if necessary, aid.

Our Image In GATT

CANADA, WRITES MR. MICHAEL BARKWAY to The Ottawa Citizen from Brussels, "is having a rough ride in defending the Prime Minister's emergency measures before other countries. The council of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which met . . . to examine Canada's tariff surcharges was even tougher than had been expected. It gave Canada what Quebec would call a 'tolerance' for its tariff surcharges only until the October meeting of the contracting parties, which will be able to take 'definitive decisions' about them."

There is no doubt, Mr. Barkway reports, that the autumn high-level meeting will take a highly critical view of Canada's trade restrictions. But surely by then our customers will have realized that, for the time being, Canada has been compelled to take emergency measures to es-

ROUGH AND READY

When Good Fellows Get Together

MANY a premier, journeying to an inter-provincial conference, must wonder with some trepidation just what he's getting into.

Premiers know so much about each other that they're always wide open for a political stiletto or an economic left hook. And even the ribbing could be rough. Premiers don't vote for each other so there's no need for them to treat one another like constituents.

Tobin You don't get to be a premier, or stay one, by cultivating a tender skin either. So the give-and-take in the backroom after the Press has left could get pretty merry—as merry as a (practice) session of the Chinese death-by-a-thousand-cuts, or Russian roulette pointed at the other fellow.

It's interesting, even a little scary, to try to imagine what the conversation in a roomful of premiers might be—a roomful of premiers that held nothing BUT premiers.

"How are things at the bank?" Ont might ask BC, with a wink at the others. "What's the total of your unindebtedness now?"

And while BC got red around the gills and struggled for a reply, the rest would grin among themselves. "That's rich," they'd giggle. ". . . Total of your unindebtedness. Ha-ha!"

BC, of course, would soon come back. "Well, well," he'd cry, "How are you Ont? Whatever became of your party back there after the Frost melted away?"

Ont would shuffle his feet uncomfortably while the grins shifted to him.

Man would take advantage of the lull to yell: "Is there a doctor in the house?" and poke Sask playfully in the ribs.

"Yes," Alta might chime in, "Better be medicare, Sask. They mighty near cut off your political head with just a local anaesthetic."

"Okay, okay," says Sask. "Why don't you save all that gas and get royalties on it? As for you, Man, you'd better quit yelling for farm relief and get some humor relief instead."

"Now boys," BC might say, "keep it light."

"Yes," puts in Que. "But don't let BC see the light or he'll want to take it over."

"Why Que," says N.B., "how can you talk that way to a Social Credit province when you're practically one yourself?"

"Don't ride him too hard," warns PEL. "He'll want to become an independent state."

"He had one," mutters Nfld., "but the cow et it."

"Hey fellas," cries NS, "d'you get that? The Caouette it! Wow!"

"Aw, go design a national flag," answers Que. "It's a wonder you fellas don't have to get permission from Ottawa to make wisecracks."

"Say, speaking of Ottawa," says Alta, "how much are you going to hit 'em up for this year?"

"Just what I was going to ask," choruses the other nine. As one man they go into a huddle, shoulder to shoulder, arms entwined, brothers under the thick political skin.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

For Frankie

We, the Sisters of the Good Shepherd Shelter wish to express our deep gratitude and appreciation to all the people who have responded so generously to the appeal for "Frankie," the dog with the broken legs. Up to the moment seven hundred dollars have been received and this will enable Frankie to be given every chance of recovery that the skilled hands of doctors and surgeons can give.

We are also most grateful for the many kind letters that we have received telling of interest and appreciation of the work being done at the Shelter, and for Frankie in particular. Only a very few have suggested that Frankie should be put to sleep, but such a procedure would be against the principles of the Shelter, as we feel we should not deny any animal the right to live. Euthanasia is only used here to assist an animal who is already dying.

We would also like to express our gratitude to the Editorial Staff of the Victoria Daily Times for the kindly way in which the appeal for Frankie was launched. Without their help we could not have succeeded.

Frankie will express his gratitude, with the love that shines through those expressive brown eyes, when after his troubles are over, he will hope to meet the many kind friends who have helped to save his life.

If Frankie's fund has been oversubscribed, the remaining sum will be used for other dogs brought to the Shelter, sick or injured, of which there are many.

time, then apply thought to this experience. Conclusions formed are then considered to be true. Whether they are, or not, depends on the accuracy with which we have remembered or recorded it.

One factor gets into the act—the emotional slant. If we very much to believe a certain story, then it may be unconsciously distorted to reach the conclusion we want. Perhaps Lord Beaverbrook's story on his life of Jesus can be accounted for in this way. We all have the right to our opinion.

Your correspondent's opinion of July 26 requires an answer.

Mr. Mathews states, after quoting from a section of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Act, "Here the doctors are told how to send in their accounts to be paid, what information they are to give the government, how they can identify a patient."

Does he not know that the doctors have to send this kind of information to M.S.A. before their account is paid, regardless of Saskatchewan's act?

In B.C. this so-called area of personal privacy is already wide open. M.S.A., M.S.I., Co-Op Health Insurance and all insurance company schemes demand and receive this type of information before they will pay a doctor's account.

Mr. Mathews refers to Sections 49 and 28 and states that if the state wants to give the doctor a dollar an hour for his time, then the doctor shall receive a dollar an hour and that shall be deemed as being full payment for his services.

Mr. Mathews should know that another section of the act provides for payment to be made at 85% of the doctors' schedule of fees. This is identical to what they receive from M.S.A.

It was with disgust one learned that the City Council had once again given a permit to a travelling circus, which, I understand, is to perform in conjunction with the Mounties' musical ride.

I believe that if most people could understand the cruelty that goes into the making of a circus performing animal such exhibitions would be so sparsely attended that they would soon cease to exist. The fact of the matter is that most of the so-called "wild animals" have to undergo such a rigorous course of training that they are broken in spirit and have to be goaded and prodded by the "brave" ring-master to give something resembling an appearance of ferocity.

The circus animals must do their performances on schedule whether they feel like it or not—hence the chairs, pistols, iron bars and whips which are always in evidence when the ring-master is making them perform as these weapons are used in their training and act as a reminder thus compelling them to do their act, and where there is compulsion there is fear and cruelty.

When the circus is "on the road" the circus animals spend their time in hot stuffy travelling cages, which in most cases are too small to permit the animal to lie down in comfort. It is to be hoped that the inspectors of the SPCA will be in attendance at all the performances and will keep a strict watch over the animals behind the scenes thereby enforcing Section 387 (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

Bitter Bitten

By MAURICE WESTERN

MR. LESTER PEARSON, coupling new criticisms with old, accused the Dieffenbaker government on Wednesday of weakening Canada's trading case in Washington. The Liberal leader, questioned at a press conference about the attempt of U.S. lumber interests to fasten quotas on Canadian producers, expressed concern about any American actions calculated to reduce imports at the point at which they become effectively competitive. His comments followed swiftly on the remark of Mr. Fleming that the U.S. request could be "extremely serious" for Canada and a speech on the same subject by the minister of forestry, Mr. Hugh John Flemming, who addressed American box manufacturers meeting at Murray Bay on Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson's point was that the Conservative ministers, and notably Mr. Donald Fleming, in their dealings with the Japanese, had employed the very arguments now being turned against Canada by U.S. lumbermen.

The so-called "voluntary quota" was, in fact, Mr. Fleming's ingenious device for protecting Canadian producers while maintaining the pretense that this country is innocent of discriminatory interference with international trade.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jimmy Brinson, age 8, of Brooklyn, Ind., for his question:

What Was the Ice Age?

We live in the Space Age, creeping year by year over the land. ★ ★ ★

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Billy Carter, age 13, of Gastonia, N.C., for his question:

What Are the Neap Tides?

The ocean tides are caused mostly by the orbiting moon. Twice each month, the moon is in line with the sun and the sun adds its pulling power to our tides. This extra pulling power adds a boost to our tidal system and we get extra high and extra low tides. These are the so-called spring tides. They occur each month with the new moon and the full moon and have nothing to do with the spring season of the year.

When the sun is pulling at right angles to the moon, we get weak tides which are called neap or nipped tides. The neap tides with lower high tides and higher low tides occur each month with the quarter moon and the three-quarter moon.

An Ice Age is a spell of chilly climate, maybe thousands of years long. In the dim past there have been several Ice Ages. North America has suffered through four of them. The last one started to melt away about 40,000 years ago.

It began gently. The winters got colder, frostier and snowier. The summers got cooler. After perhaps a thousand years, the summers were not warm enough to melt all the winter's snow. The next winter brought more snow to join it and the frosty weather froze it into sheets of ice. An icy glacier formed in eastern Canada, another near Hudson Bay and a third in western Canada.

When a glacier ice sheet is 150 feet thick, it begins to spread. The edges of the Ice Age glaciers pushed southward, maybe a few feet each year. The ice was perhaps two miles thick and in some places it crept halfway to the Gulf of Mexico.

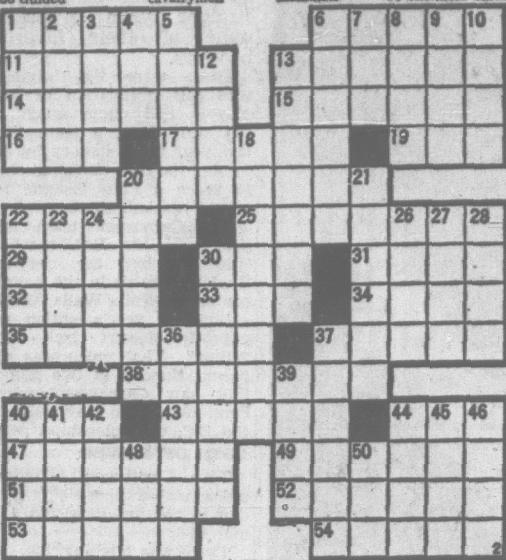

The earth was crushed beneath it, mountain peaks were clawed away, rocks were scratched by icy fingers, stones and gravel were carried along with the moving ice for hundreds of miles.

The birds and the four-footed beasts moved south where the climate was comfortably warm. The plants could not escape. They were crushed and frozen under the cruel ice. Then, after countless years, the summer days grew warmer. The edges of the glaciers began to melt and run away in icy streams. Slowly the ice fields backed up to the north. The long spell of wintery climate was over and the Ice Age came to an end.

We do not know why Ice Ages come and go. But we know a lot about them, for their icy claws left scars and scratches on the earth. The Ice Age summers, we think, were warmer than our winters. But they were not warm enough to melt the winter snow. So the summers could not stop the glaciers from growing and

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

WHITE HOUSE, Wash.—President Kennedy stepped handsomely into the Cabinet Room the other day and shook hands with me as I leaped up from the Postmaster-General's chair—but he hadn't really come in to see me.

He'd wanted to say something about his next appointment to his "smiling Irishman" assistant, receptionist and traffic cop-of-the VIPs, Dave Powers—and I happened to be interviewing Dave at the famous long table which was empty except for us two.

I claim that Dave can become as big a celebrity as . . . oh, Marlon Brando or Janet Leigh . . . which made me want to see him.

"How are we doing?" the President asked him. "About five minutes behind, Mr. President," replied David Francis Powers, 49, an ex-Boston newsboy. Sometimes the President might ask: "Where did you put the foreign minister?" Dave might reply, "I stuck him in the Fish Room." JFK might suavely say to the Dave's 49, a peppery, polite, extremely devout Catholic who was ushering at five Masses every Sunday back in '46 when "this tall, good-looking fellow with a terrific head of hair" climbed three flights in Charleston's section of Boston and knocked on his door.

Dave was living with his widowed mother and 10 children. JFK, 31 then to Dave's 35, asked him to help him run for Congress.

"His first speech, to the Gold Star Mothers, sold me," says Dave. "The hardest thing for a speaker to do is end it. He said to that crowd, 'I think I know how you ladies feel. My mother is a Gold Star Mother, herself.'

"Everyone rushed up to him afterward. On the way home he said, 'How do you think I did?' I said, 'When do we start to work?'

Dave and his wife, Mary Jo, who was his secretary when he was part of the Massachusetts State Housing Board, have three children not quite old enough to appreciate that their daddy with his Boston charm and accent is becoming really important.

Dave has a fantastic memory for figures—from batting averages to JFK pluralities. "What's so hard about remembering figures?" he says. "There are only 10 numbers. You just put them in the proper place."

Teresa Brewer's a heavy investor in the new Finger Lakes race track. Connie Francis' new $10,000 chinchilla coat was a present from Connie Francis. Nat (King) Cole recorded the Joe and Noel Sherman tune, "Ramblin' Rose". A producer asked Somerset Maugham about filming his memoirs, now running in Show magazine, adding: "Let's not rush it." "Personally," said the author, who's 80, "I'd say let's damn quick about it."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Elvis Presley told a reporter he'd bought real estate around Tennessee and Alabama, and his mgr., Col. Tom Parker, said, "Yeah—Kentucky and Arkansas."

19,000 DEAD IN 7-YEAR ALGERIA WAR

PARIS (Reuters)—More than 42,000 terrorist attacks against persons, resulting in more than 19,000 deaths, were committed in Algeria during the seven-year Algerian war from Nov. 1, 1954, to March 14, 1962, it was announced Saturday.

Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxé, in a written reply to a parliamentary question, said that 16,378 Moslems and 2,788 Europeans were killed, and 13,610 Moslems and 7,541 Europeans were injured, in 42,090 attacks.

In addition, 13,296 Moslems and 375 Europeans were listed missing during the period.

SAIGON (AP)—About 2,500 South Vietnamese troops were killed and another 4,500 were wounded or listed as missing in clashes with Red guerrillas during the first six months this year, an informed source said today.

Jerome Sure Choice

Bruce Kidd
Also Certain
Of Team Berth

TORONTO (CP) — The only thing needed to put Bruce Kidd, Harry Jerome and Abigail Hoffman on Canada's British Empire Games track and field team is the selection committee's official approval.

The performances of these three athletes in Saturday's sections of the BE Games trials here speak for themselves:

Kidd—the fastest six miles ever run in North America: 28.09.4;

Jerome—his usual blazing sprint in the 100-yard dash: 9.4;

Miss Hoffman—Canadian open and native records in only her seventh race in the women's 880-yard event: 2:10.8.

Unless there were some totally unexpected results in the windup of the trials today, Kidd, Jerome and Miss Hoffman should be the first three named to the team tonight when the selection of 14 athletes is made. A 15th spot is being left open until after the marathon trial is held in St. Hyacinthe, Que., Sept. 3.

Most of the 225 competitors attending the trials in murky, 80-degree weather, watched in awe, along with nearly 3,000 spectators, as Kidd, Jerome Miss Hoffman ran away with their events.

SET PUNISHING PACE

The 19-year-old Kidd, a student at the University of Toronto, lapped the entire starting field of 19 and set such a punishing pace that only four other runners finished the event.

Calgary's 30-year-old Doug Kyle, who held the former Canadian native mark for the six miles, was a thoroughly beaten man this time. He finished second but was more than a quarter mile behind Kidd.

The only person who had a chance to catch Miss Hoffman, a 15-year-old Toronto girl, this time was Noreen Deuling of Winnipeg, but after leading for the first half, she faded and finished 50 yards behind Miss Hoffman.

Among the other athletes who rate strong consideration for a berth on the BE Games are Dave Steen of Burnaby, B.C., and Bill Crothers of the Toronto East York Track Club.

FIVE-YARD MARGIN

Jerome, who shares the world's record for the 100 metres, beat Bob Fisher-Smith of Ottawa by a good five yards in the 100-yard dash. The 22-year-old Vancouver Negro, who attends the University of Oregon, didn't match his best time for the distance but he didn't have to. Last month Jerome won the 100 at the Western Canada championships in 9.3, which is the pending Canadian open and native mark.

Jerome also holds the Canadian open and native marks for the 220-yard sprint, which he will run in today. His record in that event is 21.2 seconds.

Steen established a Canadian native record in the men's shot-put Saturday with a heave of 56 feet, 5½ inches. He held the former mark of 54 feet. A teammate of Jerome's at the University of Oregon, Steen has, however, tossed the shot 59 feet, five inches, the second-best mark in the British Commonwealth during the last two years.

REEVE JUST NIPPED

Crothers won the 440 but his time of 47.9 was also below his best. He holds the Canadian native mark of 47.2. Lynn Eves of Victoria was second.

Jimmy Irons, 24-year-old native of Brampton, Ont., won one of the "glamour" events when he turned in a 4:04.2 for the mile. Irons, who runs for the Toronto Olympic Club, nipped Vic Reeve of Burnaby, B.C., in one of the closest events of the meet.

B.C.'s team of Jerome, Eves, Sig Ohlmann and Scott Patterson was in the 440 relay semifinals, winning in 42.4. B.C. meets Manitoba today.

UNIVERSITY OARSMEN PROVIDE . . .

UBC Eight Shatters World Record

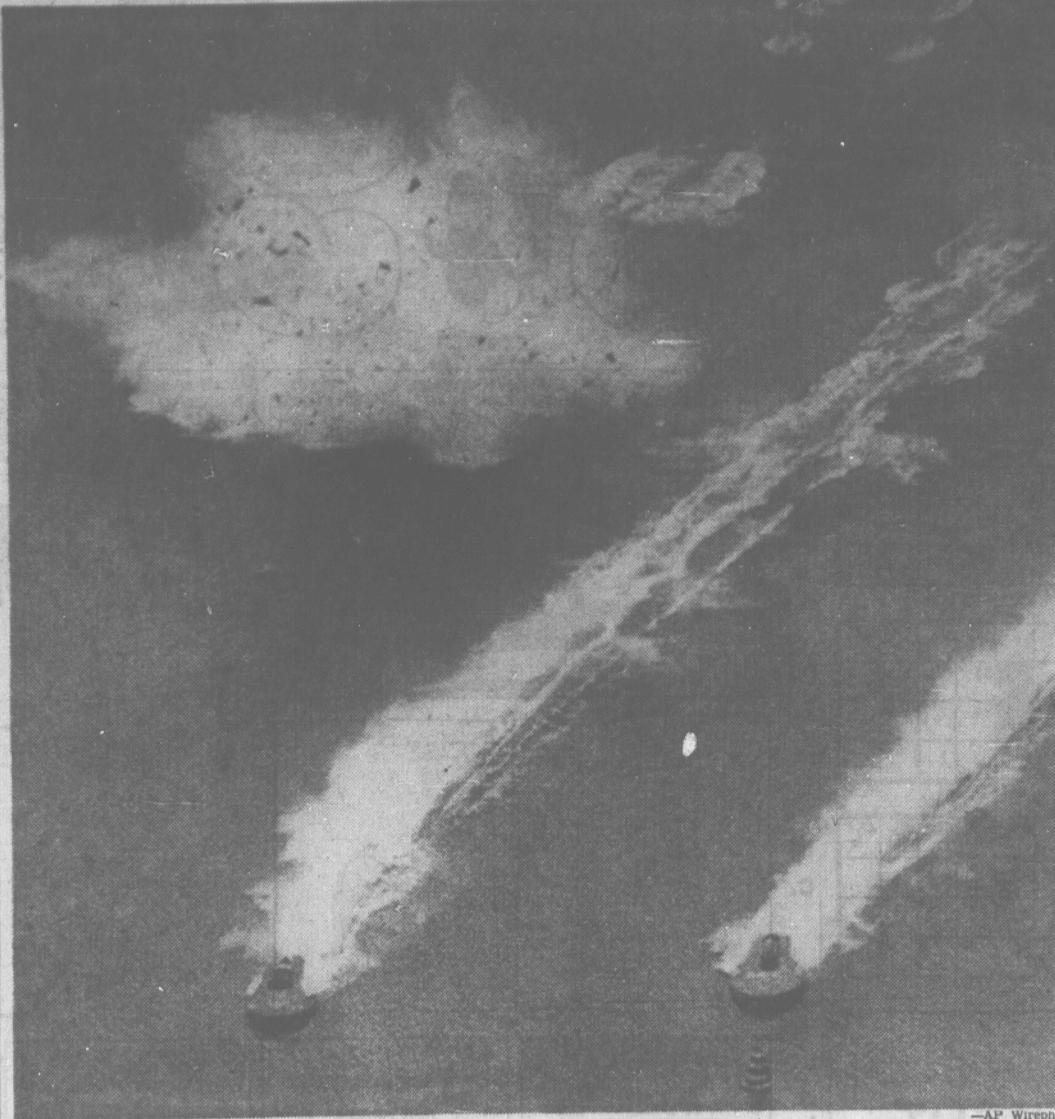

The University of British Columbia, long a stronghold of Canadian rowing talent, will provide the backbone for this country's team of oarsmen competing in the British Empire Games at Perth, Australia, in November.

The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, after watching UBC's eight-oared crew rip 16.8 seconds off the recognized world record for 2,000 metres and the University's four-oared team win a handy victory in weekend B.C. Games trials here, nominated the west coast athletes to make up Canada's rowing team.

At the same time, the CAAO recommended that the rowing contingent to Perth be increased to 17 men from 13—nominating the Toronto Argonauts doubles crew that won its class trials here Saturday and two spares for the UBC crews as additions.

The association originally limited the rowing contingent to 13 competitors and two officials.

Highlight of the weekend trials came Saturday when the smooth-stroking UBC eight, urged on by cox Ashley Lucky, slid over the calm Henley course with a light following breeze in 5:30.7 for a three-length victory over a St. Catharines rowing club crew.

Vancouver Ace Top Skeet Shot

Harvey Mackie of Vancouver staged a spectacular shooting display to capture the coveted all-around crown at the annual B.C. skeet championships, which ended Sunday at Victoria Gun Club.

Mackie cracked 344 out of 350 targets despite tough weather conditions during the two-day meet to wrap up the all-around title with a comfortable 10-target lead over another Vancouver expert, Frank Cooper.

Mackie came close to making a sweep of major events as mainland shooters dominated the activities. He won the 410-gauge title, breaking 97 of 100 birds; twice lost out in shootoffs after finishing in first-place ties with Vancouver's Frank Opsal, and lost by one bird as Cooper collected the 20-gauge championship with 97 out of 100.

Opsal won the preliminary all-gauge event Saturday in a shoot-off with Mackie after both had run a string of 50 straight targets. He also took

13 GAMES AWAY

Indians were in first place by half a game when the collapse started with a double-header defeat against Chicago White Sox July 8. In the 27 games since, Cleveland has batted for a cumulative average of .222. The Indians are tied with Chicago for fifth place, 13 games off the pace set by the leading New York Yankees.

The other major league clubs have been coming around like buzzards, trying to get this fellow and that one," said Paul. "They see these men in a slump and they think they can get them when we're down and going bad."

"The funny thing is that those who are doing the worst for us right now are the ones they're most interested in."

What's wrong with the team?

"I'm completely mystified," said Paul. "Five of our hitters are hitting a total of 200 points below what they hit last year. I'm referring to John Romano, Willie Kirkland, Tito Francona, Woodie Held and Bubba Phillips. This is considered the bulk of our attack. These men have to do the job. You can't expect others to step out of character and do it."

Victory gave the Shamrocks a record of 10 wins and two losses for the season.

Dave Collett fired five goals to pace the Rocks. Rod Kilduff added three tallies, Glen Vickers and Jack May two each. Single goals were scored by Bill Spotswood, Steve Merriman and Mike Woodley.

Gordie Fredrickson, with four goals, and Les Glover, with two, topped Legion snipers.

SPAHN WINS

Forgetting the pennant races for a moment, baseball writers Sunday sounded a salute for Warren Spahn and Robin Roberts.

Spahn won his 320th game as Milwaukee defeated Philadelphia Phillies 8-1 while Roberts chalked up his seventh triumph for Baltimore Orioles, a 7-2, five-hit conquest of Los Angeles.

Chicago beat the Yanks 3-2 in 13 innings.

'B' LACROSSE PLAYDOWNS UNDER WAY

Vancouver Island senior "B" lacrosse playoffs get under way in Memorial Arena to night.

Victoria Jokers and Esquimalt Tugmen open their best-of-three semifinal series at 8:30. Second game will be played at Esquimalt's Sports Centre on Thursday.

Winners advance to the Island final against Nanaimo.

Nanaimo Tiglettes Grab Coast Crown

NANAIMO (CP)—Nanaimo Tiglettes defeated Vancouver Renfrew Wolf Cubs 22-8 to capture the Pacific Coast junior women's softball championship in straight games here Sunday.

In the first game of the best-of-three series Nanaimo came from a 15-13 deficit in the final inning to post a 16-15 victory.

Nanaimo now goes to Trail for the B.C. championships scheduled for Aug. 10-12.

NANAIMO—Three games down with three games to play, that's the situation Nanaimo finds itself in today as the Inter-City Lacrosse League moves into its final week of the regular schedule.

There's considerable doubt concerning Nanaimo's chances of catching the third-place Victoria Shamrocks. Not quite as doubtful, however, is Nanaimo's playoff hopes.

Cabot Arrived in Better Shape (!!!) Than Ancestor

By IAIN HUNTER

In the year 1497 Sebastian Cabot, in company with his father, John, discovered an island on what was to become Canada's east coast.

Last week, 465 years later, his namesake and descendant reached the west coast of Canada and "discovered" Vancouver Island.

His ancestor reached Canadian shores racked by the rigors of an open sea voyage under sail. The modern Sebastian Cabot trundled his 280 pounds to the island in a luxurious Bentley saloon.

AUTHOR'S GUEST

Mr. Cabot, alias Dr. Hyatt of "Checkmate" fame, was a guest Saturday at the Brentwood Bay house of John Windsor, the blind author.

In the kitchen, consuming a "high tea" of spaghetti and meat balls and Windsor home brew, the unmistakable TV figure proclaimed his discovery.

"For the first time in seven years I feel at home," the London-born actor exclaimed, gazing out at the teeming rain.

REFRESHING

"I find this weather most refreshing. In California where I am forced to live, for eight months of the year you know there won't be any rain," he said.

"The climate, the farms, that lovely little country lane (the West Saanich Road)—why, I could be back in England right now."

"Even the trees. They may be the wrong kind, but they are essentially English," he added.

MANY MISTAKES

Tea over, and relaxing with a plate of fish and chips and a quaffing sake, the bearded actor admitted that his life was full of mistakes.

"I was quite happy in London as chauffeur and general factotum to British actor," he explained. "Then I smashed up the boss' car."

"All my friends were actors, and it was natural they should help me get a job."

STAYED ON

He came to California to make one picture (Kismet, with MGM), but stayed on. Such films as Westward Ho the Wagons, and television shows as Gunsmoke and Crusader, preceded the Checkmate series, for which he created the part of Dr. Hyatt himself.

Mr. Cabot's Victoria visit was more or less accidental as gazing out at the teeming rain.

He came north originally to watch his eldest son acting in the Shakespearean festival at Ashland, Ore. He came to Victoria with his wife Kay and 4½-year-old daughter Yvonne, for a one-day visit Monday.

TRAPPED

"But I was trapped." He appeared at the centennial pageant every night since the "Invitation" of the Centennial Society.

Back to spaghetti, and on to the cider by now, Sebastian Cabot said he loved every minute of the show and called it "exceptionally well done."

"When they interviewed me on the little stage I was prepared for a small amateur-type production. But when the lights went up I saw Cinerama."

NO DRAWBACK

He said that the big fault with amateurs was their speaking voices, while the fact that they didn't speak in the pageant removed that drawback.

The actor left Victoria today, but hopes to return before too long. He was even talking loosely of buying some property in the Deep Cove area.

Above all, he will miss the English fare which he rediscovered in Victoria. He admitted he had been a gourmet.

"In the past week I fear I have become a gourmand," he said ruefully surveying the array of empty plates before him.

MONTE ROBERTS

Most of the loyal constituents are well aware that My Favorite Wife and I rarely, if ever, leave This, the Fairest City of Them All.

Even during our annual period of not working. But this year, we decided we should go on a Motor Trip.

I am happy to report we successfully accomplished this objective, but only with a great deal of planning and preparation, which I feel we should share with you, should you ever be in the mood to take a Motor Trip.

Therefore, some hints:

Be sure there is gas in the gasoline tank of your automobile. Automobiles denied of gas in their gasoline tanks are apt to become sullen, refusing to even back out of the garage.

Admittedly, this takes care of all the other problems apt to be encountered on a Motor Trip, but let's not be chicken, eh?

Automobiles also require various other amenities connected with propulsion, such as oil, air, brakes, lights, and an ash tray to help keep B.C. green. See your Very Own Service Station for a complete checkup before you check out.

Once you are reasonably sure your automobile won't throw you into a ditch or turn around and bite you, there are still other preparations to be made before embarking on a Motor Trip.

A first-aid kit is essential. You can either purchase one from a druggist, or make one up to suit your own special needs. My Favorite Wife and I decided on the latter course. We obtained a box made of poly-mythio-something, guaranteed to keep its contents cool, whether they be fish, bait, or good red herring.

Into this we packed a band-aid, an aspirin, two toothpicks, an eyebrow pencil (for MFW), bicarbonate of soda (for me) and a suitable quantity of snake-bite medicine (I favor the 25-ounce size).

Ice cubes are optional but desirable.

In case you have to spend the night on the road, it is wise to take along a sleeping bag and inflatable air mattress, also a paddle.

The paddle is in case the road on which you are spending the night is beside a lake or river, and you are a restless sleeper.

Other useful items for your Motor Trip include a road map, in case somebody tells you to get lost and you don't want to; a compass, which you can box to get the exercise you're missing by just sitting; a bag of oats if your car quits and you have to get a horse; and an assortment of brightly-colored beads to trade with the natives, if they turn out to be friendly.

I trust the above hints will prove helpful if you, too, decide to take a Motor Trip.

They were of great help to MFW and I, who, after all, made it safely to Sidney and back in ONE DAY.

Taking the long way 'round, at that.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mayor R. B. Wilson today expressed personal interest in a suggestion that a national competition be held to obtain the best design for a centennial fountain in the proposed civic precinct.

The idea was put forth last week by Arthur Price, Ottawa sculptor, who cast the bronze bust of Queen Elizabeth presented by The Times to the city as a centennial gift.

"The idea of a national competition has some merit," said Mayor Wilson.

"It could well be considered by city council."

Thieves who broke into Spookey Singh's go-kart track at 206 Esquimalt Road overnight were deeply discouraged.

They climbed in through an insecure rear window, police said, and attempted to pry open a cigarette machine.

No entry was gained into the machine, and nothing else was touched.

The Prayer Group for Israel will meet in the prayer room of Central Baptist Church tonight at 7:45.

Rev. Melvin Dobson will speak on "The First King and the Last Queen" at a meeting of the British-Israel World Federation, Victoria branch, in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street, tonight at 8 p.m.

E. K. Lee of the Dominion Astro physical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, will speak on "Problems of Space Travel" at a meeting in Victoria College auditorium tonight at 8:30.

Early Autumn Will Remain Rest of Week

Early fall arrived at the weekend and appears almost certain to remain through the week, according to today's long-range weather outlook.

Forecast for Tuesday is cool with more showers, 52 degrees low tonight and 62 the high Tuesday.

Gonzales weather office said the foggy, wet spell is due to a series of storms moving down the B.C. coast.

Impaired Charge Against Driver

A Victoria woman died five hours after being injured in a two-car head-on collision Sunday evening on Dallas Road.

Investigating officers arrested one of the drivers on an impaired driving charge.

Dead is Mrs. Bertha Burford, 3220 Rutledge, a passenger in a car driven by Helen Hamel of the same address.

Richard Lasalle, 551 Niagara, was identified by police as the driver of the other car who was charged.

Police said the accident took place on Dallas Road near Clover Point at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Helen Hamel was reportedly driving east on Dallas Road, with Mrs. Burford as her passenger, when the accident occurred.

Both women were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by city police.

Helen Hamel was treated for a cut head and released.

Mrs. Burford, complaining of a back injury, was admitted.

City police were notified just after midnight that Mrs. Burford had died.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Damage to both cars was described by investigating officers as heavy.

Deputy coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said this morning that no decision has been made yet whether an inquiry would be held.

A post-mortem report was ordered from hospital authorities.

Lasalle was taken to city

Victoria North Kiwanis Club: Tally Ho Travododge, 6:15 p.m. Program: Ladies' and Hamsterley Park Night.

Victoria Kiwanis Club: Empress Hotel, 12 noon. Speaker to be announced.

This is the second postponed performance since the pageant began July 28. Last Thursday's performance also was rained out but was presented Sunday night.

Other centennial events coming up are the navy salute to Victoria Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and the RCMP Musical Ride and circus starting Saturday in Athletic Park, to run a week.

SECOND WASHOUT

This is the second postponed performance since the pageant began July 28. Last Thursday's performance also was rained out but was presented Sunday night.

Those who missed Saturday's performance in Athletic Park due to heavy rains will be able to use their tickets to night. In addition, some seats are still available for others at the Centennial Office, Douglas Street, or at the gate.

Pre-pageant entertainment, beginning at 8 p.m. will be presented by the Summer Show case from Club Strocco.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Will you please inform me as to the numerical strength of our armed forces?

I.D. A. The present authorized strength of the Canadian armed forces is 124,000; 22,000 in the navy, 60,000 in the army, and 52,000 in the air force.

Q. Our bird watching club would like you to tell us which of Canada's bird species makes the longest annual migration.

P.W.A. A. The Arctic Tern, which migrates from the Arctic to the Antarctic.

Festival Scores Two Ways

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's International Festival, an artistic winner and financial loser in the past, is capacity and better, making a box-office comeback this year. With half the season over, "Beauty and the Beast" have drawn well to offset ticket sales of around 66 per cent for the Philippines Bayanil Dancers.

Yet to come are returns from Comedie Francaise, "Caesar and Cleopatra" and Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance."

The festival lost $33,000 last year, but manager Gordon Hiller says a budget cut of $40,000 and better crowds may even turn a profit this season.

IRISH ARTIST

Daniel MacLise, the Irish-born artist who died in 1870, won the Royal Academy of Arts schools' gold medal at age 23.

Bus Revenues Still Falling

Transit buses don't make any more money under government supervision than under private enterprise, City Hall has discovered.

Second quarter payment of franchise fees from B.C. Hydro to the city totalled $5,336 compared with $6,072 for the corresponding period last year when the privately-owned B.C. Electric was running things.

The payments represent 3 per cent of the gross passenger revenue in return for the exclusive franchise on city streets. They have been dropping steadily for years.

Return Home

Mrs. A. McLeod Baird and her daughter, Margaret, have returned by air to their home on Oliver Street after a six-week visit to Great Britain and continental Europe. Mr. Baird and their son, Ian, returned earlier after the family had visited relatives in Berwickshire, Scotland, and had been guests of Dame Flora MacLeod of MacLeod of MacLeod at Dunvegan Castle in the Isle of Skye.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Margison were dinner hosts in their home on Henderson Road on Friday evening when covers were laid for 10. Affair was in honor of Group Capt. M. Fawcett and Mrs. Fawcett of Ottawa who are visiting here prior to making their home in California.

Anniversary Gift

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Ross have returned to their home on Summit Avenue after a two weeks' trip which was given to them by Mrs. Ross's sister-in-law, Mrs. V. Goodwin, Vancouver, as a gift for their golden wedding anniversary. On July 10, they celebrated their anniversary with a party given them by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bennett in their home on Hotham Road. Two days later, they left on a trip which took them first to Lake Louise then on to Alberta where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harvey in Strathmore, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harvey in Red Deer. On the way back they were hosted at another anniversary party given in Vancouver by their niece, Miss Winifred Henderson.

Out-of-Town

Many guests came from out-of-town to attend the Horwood-Stokes wedding on Saturday evening. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. K. Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reed, Mrs. Gladys Reed, Mrs. H. Page, Mr. John Reed and the Misses

SHOPPING GUIDE

Bracelet Charms With Bit of Olde Victoria

By PENNY SAVER

Your charm bracelet is lacking in charm if you don't have one of the replicas of Victoria's cluster lights that Penny saw in one jewelry store. In sterling silver, tiny charm has hanging flower baskets with bright specks of color to resemble contents of actual baskets.

These charms are priced at $3.50, but readers with more extravagant tastes may buy them made in 10 carat gold for $12.50.

On the subject of jewelry, Penny saw some necklaces that would make nice birthday gifts for the women in your family.

One which sells for just $1 has a genuine mother of pearl drop on a slender gold chain.

Just as dainty is another with the mother-of-pearl stone, outlined in gold and topped with a gold swirl. It is priced at $2.50.

The relative who dotes on lavender-scented items will appreciate a gift of perfume which is made from Spanish lavender and comes from Barcelona.

Bottle is attractively encased in basket weave and comes with extra cork. Scent is so delicate that many men find it nice as an after-shave lotion, saleswoman told Penny. For women it is a discreet cologne. Bottle is $2.

While in a gift-giving mood, Penny saw some hasty notes that will appeal to all Victorians, if not the tourists. Front of these notes have miniature reproductions of water color paintings done by a well-known Victoria artist.

There are lovely views of the Empress, Butchart's Gardens, the Olympics as seen from Beacon Hill and Old Fisherman's Wharf. Each box sells for $1 and contains 12 notes.

Call Penny at 382-3131 if you wish to know where she shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This Reader Extended Marathon to 7 Months

Nothing is more discouraging than buying clothes when one is even a little overweight, or trying to squeeze into well-liked clothes after gaining some extra, unwanted pounds during the summer!

If these are your problems, why not do something now? There is just enough time left before the fall season really gets under way. At this time each year I print some of the success stories of women who joined my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon last January. Even if you do not need to lose weight, I feel sure that you will find these letters interesting.

The following letter is from a woman who followed the plan in the Marathon booklet but continued for more than eight weeks. In fact, she followed this self-improvement plan for seven months! Let's see what she has to say.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

I feel that you deserve a great deal of the credit for what I have been able to do. There were many times when I might not have had the courage to keep trying if it hadn't been for your column. I am 5 feet, 4½ inches tall. I am 52 years old. You can imagine what I looked like seven months ago when I tell you that I weighed 238 pounds. According to your Marathon booklet, I was 98 pounds overweight when I started. During the seven months I lost 62 pounds.

"I still must lose weight and intend to do so. I have been eating about 1200 calories a day. I feel so much better since I do not eat so much. I used to have so much indigestion that I felt sick all of the time. That is completely gone."

"I have just been to my doctor for a check-up and he is very pleased. I hope you will print this letter because it may help others who have a lot of weight to lose."

I imagine this letter will be an inspiration to many women who need to lose weight for health and beauty, and it

Spend Honeymoon in Hawaii

A sea voyage aboard the SS Arcadia to Hawaii are honeymoon plans of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Earl Horwood who were married in Fairfield United Church Saturday evening. Couple will make their home in Victoria.

The bride is the former Elizabeth Anne Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Frank Stokes of Hong Kong. Mrs. Stokes came to Victoria for her daughter's wedding.

Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Cliff J. Horwood, 1067 Hampshire Road.

White and pastel pink gladioli decorated the church for the ceremony at which Dr. H. K. Johnson officiated. Mrs. H. Youson was soloist and Charles Palmer played wedding music.

Robert Booth, East Walpole, Mass., gave the bride in marriage.

Her gown, designed in Hong Kong, was of embroidered silk organza over duchesse satin and featured lily point sleeves and a scoop neckline of appliquéd organza flowers.

A veil of illusion net misted from a band of organza leaves embroidered with pearls. Cream roses were in her cascade bouquet.

Bridesmaids, Miss Judith Outerbridge, New Westminster; Miss Libby Roper, Victoria, and Miss Libbie Shekury, Hong Kong, wore gowns of aqua Chinese brocade styled on princess lines. Their picture hats and shoes were en tone and they carried bouquets of white gladioli and carnations.

Best man was Cordell Newby, of Leavenworth, Wash. Ushers were Doug Beulah, Dave Beulah, Alex McCabe and Dan Horwood of Haywood, Calif.

A four-tier wedding cake, made by the groom's mother, centred the bride's table at a reception in Victoria Golf Club. W. J. Roper proposed and the coat in oyster tone.

The bride's travel ensemble was a sheath dress and coat of Thai silk, the dress and reception in Victoria Golf Club.

Police to Check
Mass Douk Moves

(Times News Services)

AGASSIZ—RCMP kept a 24-hour watch today at various checkpoints on roads leading out of the East Kootenays to halt any mass Sons of Freedom Doukhobor migration to this area where a new prison for Freedomites has been established.

Meanwhile, 54 Freedomites held in jail continued a hunger strike into the 14th day. Prison officials said federal prison authorities are being checked as to what action should be taken. Forced feeding may be used.

Within hours Saturday 10 Freedomite women were sentenced to six-month jail terms for stripping outside the front gates of the new prison. They stripped in protest at being refused permission to visit their husbands in the prison and pleaded guilty to performing an indecent act in a public place.

They will now serve terms in Oakalla prison farm in Burnaby.

Two Doukhobor women were permitted into the prison to visit their husbands Friday. B.C. penitentiary warden Tom Hall said this visit was an experiment to see if it would break the hunger strike. When it failed the prison returned to the practice of refusing visiting privileges to inmates who misbehave.

Meanwhile, another six Freedomite homes were put to the torch in the East Kootenays over the weekend. A total of 252 homes have been burned since June when Freedomites began a "scorched earth" policy in protest against arrest of their leaders.

BABY KILLED

NEW WESTMINSTER—A mother was charged with infanticide Saturday after witnesses said they saw her throw a two-month-old baby

BOSTON BAR—Two escapees from Burnaby's Oakalla Prison Farm were captured on a train here Sunday night after RCMP received a tip they were aboard. Wayne Carlson and Thomas Steele were among five men who fled from the prison six days ago. Their arrest leaves one still at large.

WATCHMAN ESCAPES

PENTICTON—Watchman Noel Newell, 70, barely escaped early Sunday as fire destroyed a lumber rull a mile from this Okanagan centre.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED

NORTH VANCOUVER—Fire destroyed the $150,000 Norgate sawmill here early Sunday. Only a gang saw and about $30,000 worth of stacked lumber was saved. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

CAMPBELL RIVER—John O. Elliott of Campbell River was fined $200 and sentenced to nine months in jail following an accident and chase.

Elliott's car hit a vehicle driven by off-duty policeman Ronald Mauter and, when Mauter followed, Elliott killed him in the groin.

Elliott was sentenced to nine months in jail for assault causing bodily harm, and fined $200 for careless driving.

Rain Pays Off For Gloomy Motel Owners

An egg shortage on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland today forced prices up four cents.

An agriculture department spokesman blamed a general decline in production.

V.I. ROUNDUPRain Pays Off For Gloomy Motel Owners

Rains that lashed Vancouver Island over the weekend brought a minor bonanza to resort operators as campers unprepared for rough weather traded canvas for shingled roofs.

From Parksville north to Campbell River, a number of resorts that have been displaying "vacancy" signs since the beginning of the holiday season reported all cottages full.

"But it's only a temporary lift," one operator said. "From the start, this has been a bad tourist season. Even if business picked up now, a good many of us would have to write off this summer as a loss. Labor Day is less than a month off, and after that, there's practically no family trade."

American 'Fuehrer' in U.K. Defying Home Office Ban

LONDON (Reuters)—George Lincoln Rockwell, self-styled Fuehrer of the American Nazi party, has arrived in Britain despite an official ban on his entry, the home office said today.

A spokesman said Home Secretary Henry Brooke "is considering reports to see whether any action is necessary."

Brooke last week ordered immigration officers to bar international Nazis and fascist leaders from Britain after a series of rallies by extreme right-wing groups ended in riots.

The home office statement today confirmed press reports that Rockwell addressed black-shirted, jack-booted "National Socialists" in Gloucestershire Sunday.

The open-air rally was organized by the anti-Jewish, anti-coloured National Socialist movement, a tiny group led by Coventry school teacher Colin John.

The movement has announced that the current rally, said to be attended by sympathizers from France, Germany and Austria, along with British members, will last a week.

Rockwell apparently landed at Shannon in Ireland and made his way to Britain from there.

Meanwhile another fascist-style rally was held during the current Bank Holiday weekend by the British National party. Delegates included an Italian, German, Frenchman and Spaniard who entered Britain as tourists.

Supporters of another right-wing organization, Sir Oswald Mosley's Union Movement, were pelted with coins, ice cream and nuts when they held a meeting Sunday at the Southend-on-Sea resort.

Municipalities Won't Lose Says Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — Every municipality will receive at least as much money from provincial coffers under planned new fiscal arrangements as it receives under the present per capita grants program, Premier Bennett said Saturday night.

"In the new budget," the premier told an anniversary dinner here, "not one of them (the municipalities) will receive any less than they are getting now."

Mr. Bennett referred to an earlier announcement he made that his government plans next spring to introduce changes in its assistance to municipalities.

Mr. Bennett had said then that the present $50 annual grant made to homeowners by the provincial government will be increased to $100; the present system of basing municipal financial grants on population will be discontinued, and the province will pay grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes on provincially-owned property.

Social Credit Organizers Ready to Roll

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Social Credit party, ready to defeat the federal government in a parliamentary vote on austerity, will move organizers across the country next month in preparation for an early election, the deputy national leader said Saturday.

Real Caouette, fiery 54-year-old Quebec Social Credit leader, said two national organizers have been hired by the party.

One will work the five provinces from Ontario to the west coast, the other five from Quebec to the east coast.

During the next month, they would cover the whole country with national organization and the party would be ready for a general federal election in which it would elect 150 members.

Mr. Caouette, who said earlier in the day that the present 30 Social Credit members of Parliament are more important than Prime Minister Diefenbaker because they hold the balance of power in the House of Commons, then added:

"If the Liberals come with a non-confidence motion on tight money, we will fight that tight-money policy with all our strength."

Mr. Caouette, invited here as a special guest at celebrations marking the 10th anniversary of Social Credit taking office as government of B.C., made the remarks at $10-a-plate dinner to raise funds for television campaigning.

Income Tax Issue Holds Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP)—The income tax cut issue took on the suspense of a "whodunit" last week.

The developing question was whether July economic statistics would cause President Kennedy to ask Congress to slice taxes immediately instead of next year as he had promised earlier.

The first, and one of the most important, indicators—the job situation—came out, and its improvement was interpreted as tending to reduce the possibility of a quick tax cut.

Labor Secretary Goldberg reported the number of unemployed declined by 450,000 in the last month. This cut the unemployment rate to 5.3 per cent of the work force, lowest since May 1960.

Both employment and unemployment showed an improvement of about 1,100,000 over a year ago.

Goldberg, believed to be among the Kennedy advisers urging a tax cut now, said the figures were encouraging.

STOOD PAT

Kennedy stood pat on his announced intention to wait until mid-August to make a decision. He wants to see reports on retail sales' expenditures and production.

He told a press conference that he wasn't satisfied with current conditions because "there is still a gap between what we are doing and what we could do, based on our manpower and on our plant capacity."

The business outlook was widely debated. On the optimistic side was the First National City Bank of New York, the third largest bank in the United States. It said "the weight of the evidence available does not support the view that a recession is at hand."

Reports on several phases of the economy painted a rather spotty picture.

Sales of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in June totalled $67,400,000,000, a drop of $1,000,000 from May. Retail sales were off near two per cent.

The annual rate of construction activity declined from $62,500,000 in June to $61,700,000 in July.

MAY BE RECORD

Corporate earnings reports continued to flood out of directors' meetings, and indications were that second-quarter profits would be close to the record peaceable rate of the two preceding quarters.

Steel firms, however, did not fare well in the second quarter. U.S. Steel Corp., for example, reported its earnings of $40,260,000 were below the $55,800,000 of the 1961 first quarter and the $59,000,000 of the 1961 second quarter. Nevertheless, it declared its usual 75-cent quarterly dividend although earnings amounted to only 63 cents a share.

Steel production rose for the third consecutive week but amounted only to about 50 per cent of capacity. Output of 1,504,000 tons was 7.6 per cent above the previous week.

The automakers cut back sharply on production this week to change over to 1963 models. Only Ford and General Motors built cars. Output was estimated at 114,000 passenger cars, compared with 136,341 last week. Almost all assembly lines will be shut down by end of next week.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

People in the department of Recreation and Conservation have decided that their title is too unwieldy. Inside the organization, it's been rechristened the "Fun and Games" department.

The province's new $45,000 statue behind the legislative buildings has already "taken a bath." Some joker dropped a box of detergent into the fountain and workmen were compelled to drain it over the weekend.

Prime Minister John Robarts of Ontario is no stranger to Victoria. He was a gunner officer aboard HMCS Uganda when she returned here from the Pacific wars in August, 1945, landing at the naval dockyard just two days before Japan sued for peace.

Approximately two seconds after Mayor Dick Wilson unveiled the bronze statue of Her Majesty in Beacon Hill Park Sunday afternoon an elderly lady exclaimed in a boisterous voice: "I think it's awful!" Sculptor Art Price, who was standing nearby, grinned and said: "Everyone is entitled to his own opinion."

Overheard at a recent sunset ceremony was the following two-and-a-half-year-old's remark to her father as the soldiers raised their rifles:

"Look, Daddy, they're going to shoot down the flag."

An instructional movie on the safe use of firearms is now being prepared by Dick Colby and the E.C. government's film unit.

"Many people think it is time such a movie was made," Mr. Colby said.

Other movies coming along are "Duck Lake," the story of bird migration; "Big Game," and the opening of the Rogers Pass Highway.

"We hear so many jokes around here about Oak Bay," said a lady from Nevada. "What is it — a rest home?"

Not quite.

A Times reporter was bundled off last week to cover a speech by His Excellency Raymond Bousquet, France's Ambassador to Canada. Arriving at the meeting, he found it was the L'Alliance Francaise group and that everyone, including the ambassador, was speaking French.

Rushing to a phone, he sent an SOS to Lieut. Cmdr. D. J. Williams, a French instructor with the Navy's Officer Training School.

"I'll be right over," the genial interpreter laughed.

The "ship" was saved.

Encouraging ... "Victoria holds a particular charm for my husband and I, for we spent our honeymoon there some 14 years ago," writes Mrs. L. W. Salyer from 19055 Donnington, Glenora, California.

"Recently we came again — this time in a tent with four children, fully realizing that such a trek might well take the sheen off any well-remembered memory.

"Our stay only put a further glow on our liking for Victoria; to us it had not changed appreciably—the beautiful gardens, the drives, the totems, we enjoyed them all. But most of all we liked the people ..."

complained about her behavior, added:

"Maybe she was tough to work with. Maybe she wasn't even an actress. But it was worth a week's torment to get those three luminous minutes on the screen."

Sir Laurence Olivier agreed she was difficult to work with, but added:

"She could be incredibly sweet, most tenderly appealing, and very, very witty."

Olivier starred with her and directed her in The Prince and the Showgirl. He blamed Hollywood for making her "the complete victim of ballyhoo and sensation."

French writer-director Jean Cocteau also blamed Marilyn's death on a public hungry for personal details of her life.

"This atrocious death will be a terrible lesson for those whose principal occupation consists in spying on and tormenting the film stars," he commented.

"If anyone had asked me to compile a list of people who I thought might commit suicide, I would have put her name on it," said Dame Edith Sitwell, one of Britain's leading literary lights who became a friend of the actress during meetings in Hollywood.

"Somehow she seemed fated to be sad. The poor girl ... it's just too sad."

Photographer Cecil Beaton, who found her the world's most photogenic woman, said:

"It was a pleasure to be her friend. But I always felt that Marilyn was doomed to a sad end."

Soblen Seems Israel-Bound

LONDON (AP) — The conviction grew today that runaway Russian spy Dr. Robert Soblen will be returned to Israel this week to continue his fight to escape a life sentence in a U.S. prison for wartime espionage.

Dr. Ari Ankori, Soblen's Israeli lawyer, said the 61-year-old psychiatrist may be sent back to Israel by Thursday to begin the legal battle to remain there. The Israeli cabinet was reported considering letting him find asylum in another country, probably Czechoslovakia.

He said it might be 48 hours before it can be announced. Thus in death the screen's sex goddess left behind the same mysterious personality contrast that she evinced in life.

MOBBED BY FANS
As Marilyn Monroe, movie star, she was under a public microscope — exciting, wanted and mobbed by fans.

Her more than 20 movies since her first big break in The Asphalt Jungle in 1950 had grossed $200,000,000.

At the banks that finance movies, her name on a contract meant unlimited credit for a producer.

Only her last two movies, Let's Make Love and The Misfits, had been disappointing at the box office — a fact which distressed her.

She seemed happy as Marilyn Monroe, the star, with the spotlights beaming brightly.

But when the lights went off in her lonely bedroom, the dreams of Marilyn Monroe, the sex symbol, became the nightmares of Norma Jean Baker, lost waif in a lost world.

Few movie scripts will ever match the drama of the Marilyn Monroe story, the beautiful girl who had everything — but personal happiness.

CHILDHOOD TRAGIC

Every movie fan knew the details of her childhood — as tragic as her death.

The unwanted, the unloved waif, boarded at county expense in a kind of foster homes . . . a little girl who washed dishes and scrubbed floors . . . her girlish body violated by a roomer in a foster home . . . her illegitimacy by a father she never saw . . . a mother she seldom saw outside of mental homes.

And all the while dreaming of becoming a movie star — and, when she did, her insecure childhood failed to cushion her against the shocking insecurity of the Hollywood jungle.

Marilyn died proving that peace of mind cannot be bought — even on an income of $1,000,000 a picture.

In 1961, she lost two babies while married to Miller. Then came a frustrated love affair with married Yves Montand, the breakup of her marriage to Miller because of it, and the untimely death of Clark Gable, her co-star in The Misfits.

The result — two stays in New York psychiatric hospitals. Only hours before her death she had called her psychiatrist in a vain attempt to soothe her troubled nerves.

It was the same psychiatrist, called by Marilyn's housekeeper who broke into a bedroom window to find her dead.

In her hand she clutched a telephone which was off the hook.

Perhaps she had been calling for help — as she had for much of her life. A help that never came.

Friends said she was distraught in recent weeks over being fired from the film Something's Got to Give by 20th Century-Fox studio.

Marilyn had a history of a decade of tardiness, unexplained illnesses, sudden disappearances and failures to appear. But studio execs had always forgiven her in the past.

Fox, smarting from excessive costs in its filming of Elizabeth Taylor's much-delayed Cleopatra, stunned Hollywood — and their star — by firing her for failure to meet the comedy's shooting schedule. In seven weeks, she had put in only five full days of work. The studio later filed a $500,000 suit against her, despite her claim that she was ill.

"Sure, she's sick," a studio boss said at the time. "She believes she's sick. She may even have a fever, but it's a sickness of the mind. Only a psychiatrist can help her now."

Marilyn was born illegitimately in Los Angeles County General Hospital June 1, 1926. Her mother was a movie cutter named Gladys Baker. Her father was a handsome Danish immigrant named Edward Mortensen.

He disappeared before Marilyn was born and was reported to have been killed in a motorcycle crash in Ohio in 1926.

Marilyn's mother suffered a nervous breakdown after Marilyn was born and has spent a lifetime in and out of mental institutions.

Out of Marilyn's childhood came the fears that were to haunt her later life. The facts became part of the Monroe saga — how she was placed in a Los Angeles orphanage, how she later was shunted from one foster home to another, beaten by some of her new parents, adored by others.

'I WAS NEVER USED TO IT, SO . . .'

'Happiness Not Taken For Granted' — Marilyn

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was never used to being happy, so that wasn't something I ever took for granted."

The words came from a beautiful young woman — the brightest movie star of her generation, who, in the eyes of most people, had every reason to be happy. Her name was Marilyn Monroe. She was found dead Sunday.

Marilyn made the statement in an interview printed in the current issue of Life magazine. Here, in her own words, are some of the late star's views on her life, her fame and her art: "Sometimes wearing a scarf and a polo coat and no makeup and with a certain attitude of walking I go shopping — or just looking at people living. But then, you know, there will be a few teen-agers who are kind of sharp, and they'll say, 'hey, just a minute — you know who I think that is?' And then they'll start talking me. And I don't mind. I realize some people want to see if you're real . . ."

"But when you're famous kind of run into human nature in a raw kind of way. It stirs up envy, fame does. People you run into feel that, well, who is she — who does she think she is, Marilyn Monroe? . . ."

TRY TO EXPLAIN

"But one thing about fame is, the bigger the people are or the simpler the people are, the more they are not awed by you. They don't feel they have to be offensive. They don't feel they have to insult you. You can meet Carl Sandburg, and he is so pleased to meet you . . . or else you can meet working people who want to know what is it like. You try to explain to them . . ."

"When I was five — I think that's when I started wanting to be an actress — I loved to play. I didn't like the world around me because it was kind of grim — but I loved to play house, and it was like you could make your own boundaries . . ."

"Some of my foster families used to send me to the movies to get me out of the house, and there I'd sit all day and way into the night — up in front there with the screen so big, a little kid all alone, and I loved it . . ."

"And I want to say that the people — if I am a star — the people made me a star — no studio, no person, but the people did . . ."

"An actor is not a machine, no matter how much they want to say you are. Creativity has got to start with humanity, and when you're a human being you feel, you suffer, you're gay, you're sick, you're nervous or whatever . . ."

"Real glamor, it's based on dination of provincial bond issues and formation of a national economic advisory council.

Although Premier Lesage said in an interview that no federal-provincial issues would be discussed, he conceded that the effects of a national austerity program could come up.

Co-operation in borrowing could be one way to combat the high interest rates forced by the Dieffenbaker government.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba last year combined on short-term borrowing.

BEST TERMS

Most beneficial effect of interprovincial co-operation would be on timing of bond issues so that each province could get the best possible terms.

Other topics on the suggested list included a provincial power grid, uniform liquor advertising laws, securities legislation, Sunday observance laws and co-ordination of labor legislation.

UNITILITY STRESSED

The conference opened with declarations of Canadian unity from Premier W. A. C. Bennett, the host, and Mr. Lesage.

"I am sure the conference is going to be a great success and make for real Canadian unity," said Mr. Bennett in a welcoming address.

Said Mr. Lesage: "I realize more and more how much can be done in the field of interprovincial relations regarding provincial matters.

"This conference is evidence of unity in Canada."

Other topics on the suggested agenda include: co-ordination of educational standards in Canada, municipal finances, economic growth and development, portable pensions, co-ordination of provincial efforts to cope with nationally licensing, unemployment assistance, uniform financial responsibility laws, and the Fathers of Confederation Memorial building planned for Canada's 1967 Centenary.

Missing from the opening session of the conference was Premier Joey Smallwood of Newfoundland, flying to Victoria after a Jamaica holiday and due this afternoon.

Cabot Arrived in Better Shape (!!!) Than Ancestor

By IAIN HUNTER

In the year 1497 Sebastian Cabot, in company with his father, John, discovered an island on what was to become Canada's east coast.

Last week, 465 years later, his namesake and descendant reached the west coast of Canada and "discovered" Vancouver Island.

His ancestor reached Canadian shores racked by the rigors of an open sea voyage under sail. The modern Sebastian Cabot trundled to the island in a luxurious Bentley saloon.

AUTHOR'S GUEST

Mr. Cabot, alias Dr. Hyatt of "Checkmate" fame, was a guest Saturday in the Brentwood Bay house of John Windsor, the blind author.

In the kitchen, consuming a "high tea" of spaghetti and meat balls and Windsor home brew, the unmistakeable TV figure proclaimed his discovery.

"For the first time in seven years I feel at home," the London-born actor exclaimed, gazing out at the teen girls.

REFRESHING

"I find this weather most refreshing. In California where I am forced to live, for eight months of the year you know there won't be any rain," he said.

"The climate, the farms, that lively little country lane (the West Saanich Road)—why, I could be back in England right now."

"Even the trees. They may be the wrong kind, but they are essentially English," he added.

MANY MISTAKES

Tea over, and relaxing with a plate of fish and chips and quaffing sake, the bearded actor admitted that his life was full of mistakes.

"I was quite happy in London as chauffeur and general factotum to a British actor," he explained. "Then I smashed up the boss's car."

"All my friends were actors, and it was natural they should help me get a job."

STAYED ON

He came to California to make one picture (Kismet, with MGM), but stayed on. Such films as Westward Ho the Wagons, and television shows as Gunsmoke and Crusader, preceded the Checkmate series, for which he created the part of Dr. Hyatt himself.

Mr. Cabot's Victoria visit was more or less accidental as well.

He came north originally to watch his eldest son acting in the Shakespearean festival at Ashland, Ore. He came to Victoria with his wife Kay and 4½-year-old daughter Yvonne, for a one-day visit Monday.

TRAPPED

"But I was trapped." He appeared at the centennial pageant every night since the "Invitation" of the Centennial Society.

Back to spaghetti, and on to the cider by now, Sebastian Cabot said he loved every minute of the show and called it "exceptionally well done."

"When they interviewed me on the little stage I was prepared for a small amateur-type production. But when the lights went up I saw Cinerama."

NO DRAWBACK

He said that the big fault with amateurs was their speaking voices, but the fact that they didn't speak in the pageant removed that drawback.

The actor left Victoria today, but hopes to return before too long. He was even talking loosely of buying some property in the Deep Cove area.

Above all, he will miss the English fare which he rediscovered in Victoria. He admitted he had been a gourmand.

"In the past week I fear I have become a gourmand," he said ruefully surveying the array of empty plates before him.

IN ROLE OF SPECTATOR for a change, Sebastian Cabot, better known as Dr. Hyatt on TV's Checkmate, points out excellence of Victoria's Centennial Pageant to fascinated daughter Yvonne, 4, and wife Kay.

MONTE ROBERTS

Most of the loyal constituents are well aware that My Favorite Wife and I rarely, if ever, leave This, the Fairest City of Them All.

Even during our annual period of not working.

But this year, we decided we should go on a Motor Trip. I am happy to report we successfully accomplished this objective, but only with a great deal of planning and preparation, which I feel we should share with you, should you ever be in the mood to take a Motor Trip.

Therefore, some hints:

Be sure there is gas in the gasoline tank of your automobile. Automobiles denied of gas in their gasoline tanks are apt to become sullen, refusing to even back out of the garage.

Admittedly, this takes care of all the other problems apt to be encountered on a Motor Trip, but let's not be chicken, eh?

Automobiles also require various other amenities connected with propulsion, such as oil, air, brakes, lights, and an ash tray to help keep B.C. green. See your Very Own Service Station for a complete checkup before you check out.

Once you are reasonably sure your automobile won't throw you into a ditch or turn around and bite you, there are still other preparations to be made before embarking on a Motor Trip.

A first-aid kit is essential. You can either purchase one from a druggist, or make one up to suit your own special needs. My Favorite Wife and I decided on the latter course. We obtained a box made of polyo-mythio-something, guaranteed to keep its contents cool, whether they be fish bait, or good red herring.

Into this we packed a band-aid, an aspirin, two toothpicks, an eyebrow pencil (for MFW), bicarbonate of soda (for me) and a suitable quantity of snake-bite medicine (I favor the 25-cent size).

Ice cubes are optional but desirable.

In case you have to spend the night on the road, it is wise to take along a sleeping bag and inflatable air mattress, also a paddle.

The paddle is in case the road on which you are spending the night is beside a lake or river, and you are a restless sleeper.

Other useful items for your Motor Trip include a road map, in case somebody tells you to get lost and you don't want to; a compass, which you can box to get the exercise you're missing by just sitting; a bag of oats if your car quits and you have to get a horse; and an assortment of brightly-colored beads to trade with the natives, if they turn out to be friendly.

I trust the above hints will prove helpful if you, too, decide to take a Motor Trip.

They were of great help to MFW and I, who, after all, made it safely to Sidney and back in ONE DAY.

Taking the long way 'round, at that.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mayor R. B. Wilson today expressed personal interest in a suggestion that a national competition be held to obtain the best design for a centennial fountain in the proposed civic precinct.

The idea was put forth last week by Arthur Price, Ottawa sculptor, who cast the bronze bust of Queen Elizabeth presented by The Times to the city as a centennial gift.

"The idea of a national competition has some merit," said Mayor Wilson.

"It could well be considered by city council."

Thieves who broke into Spooner Singh's go-kart track at 206 Esquimalt Road overnight were easily discouraged.

They climbed in through an insecure rear window, police said, and attempted to pry open a cigarette machine.

No entry was gained into the machine, and nothing else was taken.

The Prayer Group for Israel will meet in the prayer room of Central Baptist Church tonight at 7:45.

Rev. Melvin Dobson will speak on "The First King and the Last Queen" at a meeting of the British-Israel World Federation, Victoria branch, in the Newcastle Hall, 734 Fort Street, tonight at 8:30.

E. K. Lee of the Dominion Astro physical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, will speak on "Problems of Space Travel" at a meeting in Victoria College auditorium tonight at 8:30.

Victoria's advisory board on air pollution today formally recommended that the city withhold further charges against anti-smoke bylaw violators until this week's test cases are decided.

The "truce" was proposed some time ago at a joint meeting of the board and industry representatives to see if voluntary co-operation could solve the smoke and fly-ash problem.

First charges laid under the city's year-old anti-smoke bylaw are scheduled for trial in city police court this week.

There is only $4,999 to go to fill the Pageant Film Fund.

Target is $5,000. The fund, opened at the City Hall for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is intended to pay for filming of the centennial pageant.

"So far there has been only one donation—a dollar from a lady," said city clerk Frank Hunter.

Paul Smith and Jim Duprav won the weekly tournament of the Victoria unit, American Contract Bridge League. Second were Elizabeth Warren and Les Stewart.

A public meeting of the Victoria local of the Socialist Party of Canada will be held at 8 this evening at 1280 Pike Street.

The winners of a series race held Sunday by the Royal Victoria Yacht Club during their annual regatta were:

Escape Costs 6 Months

Magistrate A. I. Thomas today added six months to the three-year prison sentence of Peter Richard Soloway.

The 29-year-old convict gained 16 days of freedom after walking out of William Head minimum security establishment July 18—longest period achieved in the six escapes of the establishment's history.

He was brought to RCMP police court in handcuffs this morning, pleaded guilty to unlawful escape and was sent back to the cells of the federal penitentiary in New Westminster.

FAMILY TROUBLE

Black-haired, tanned and grave, he told the court:

"There isn't very much I can say. I've had a lot of trouble with my family and it proved a little too much for me."

He was caught in Vancouver while trying to contact his wife.

"I can't understand what you expected to gain," said Magistrate Thomas.

YOUR OWN FAULT'

"I sentence you to six months in addition to what you are serving."

"You have deprived yourself of any privileges you might have had and it's your own fault."

William Head superintendent Harry Collins said Soloway caused no damage or injury during his escape bid.

AFTER SPECIMENS

Two were working as zoology laboratory assistants for the summer and were to collect specimens for Victoria College research.

B.C. Airlines said they had talked to the party three times this morning.

"They are doing well. They have no problems so far. They are all right as long as their food holds out," a radio operator said.

He said if there was an emergency the RCAF could land a helicopter on the lake or nearby.

TOO DANGEROUS

But today's zero-zero flying conditions were too hazardous for conventional aircraft.

If the weather remains poor for several more days as the long-range forecast predicts, the students may hike out or a pack train could be sent after them.

They had 200 pounds of freight with them when they were flown in.

This likely would be bolstered by plant and small animal specimens on the return trip.

The seaman, identified as Hans Joachim Korbel, apparently died some time Saturday.

$20,000 Bail in $380,000 Fraud

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bail of $20,000 was set in police court today for a man charged in connection with an alleged $380,000 fraud conspiracy.

Hilgrif Robert Cripps, 47, was remanded until Friday when he appeared in police court after surrendering to fraud detail detectives at police headquarters.

An indictment containing four conspiracy charges and 41 other counts of fraud alleges Cripps and two others obtained the money by financing non-existent trailers through finance companies.

Vancouver Woman Slain; Man Held

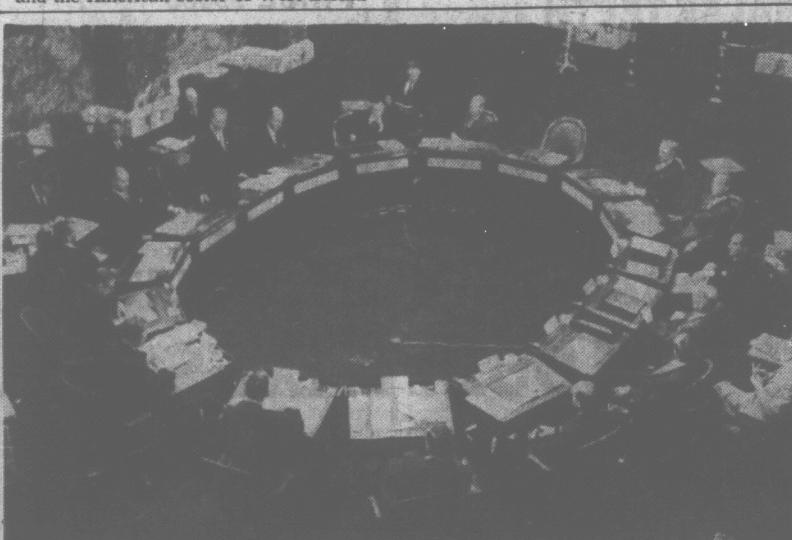

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said today they are investigating the fatal shooting of a young woman as she walked up the steps of a home in the city's west residential district.

Officers said a suspect has been arrested and is being questioned.

Identity of the woman, reported in her early twenties, was not immediately known.

'GREAT AMOUNTS' LOST

Premiers Draw Bead On Sales Tax Cheats

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Education, finance and a way to stop people from gyping on sales tax were discussed at the opening session of a provincial premiers' conference here today.

Conference chairman Jean Lesage, premier of Quebec, told reporters that a 17-point agenda had been approved and that this morning's session was confined to two subjects.

Mr. Lesage said provinces with sales tax are losing "great amounts" each year because people have found a way to get around paying.

The "device" used is to purchase an expensive item in another province and have it shipped direct to the buyer's home province.

Mr. Lesage explained that a B.C. resident could go to Montreal and buy a $10,000 mink coat there, have it shipped straight home, and thus avoid paying Quebec's six per cent sales tax.

Technically the British Columbian is bound to pay B.C.'s five per cent tax when he returns.

"In the last two years Caouette has toured the province, gone on television, preaching the gospel—and it filled a vacuum in Quebec."

"Just the same I learned my lesson," said Mr. Lesage.

The lesson: "I'm afraid both Conservative and Liberal parties have been negligent in their contact with the people—the grass roots."

In the last two years Caouette has toured the province, gone on television, preaching the gospel—and it filled a vacuum in Quebec."

In fact it's not done.

Silent Vigil By British Ban-Bombers

LONDON (Reuters)—British anti-nuclear and pacifist groups held silent vigils today to mark the 17th anniversary of the American atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament estimated up to 5,000 members were parading alongside roads while others stood solemnly at monuments to Britain's war dead.

They carried banners and handed out leaflets reading "No more tests, no more bombs and no more Hiroshima."

At the Cenotaph, a war memorial in the heart of London, a group of young mothers stood with bowed heads in drenching rain as part of a 12-hour vigil to honor the dead of the Japanese city and all victims of atomic explosions.

He termed education financing "one of the most important problems of provincial governments."

He said premiers of each province had agreed to submit a brief outlining their methods of financing education.

He will distribute the briefs among provinces later.

'Suicide Team' Probing Death

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marilyn Monroe's attorney said today that he had requested the Los Angeles coroner's office to release the actress' body to a friend, Inez Melson.

The attorney, Aaron Frosch of New York, said Miss Melson, a resident of Los Angeles, would arrange for burial in the family lot at the Westwood Cemetery in West Los Angeles. Funeral services are tentatively scheduled for Wednesday at Westwood Village mortuary chapel, according to reports in Los Angeles.

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe's body lay unclaimed in the county morgue today—the tragic climax of a lifetime of personal sorrow that even wealth and fame couldn't ease.

She was found dead early Sunday in the cluttered bedroom of her $75,000 Brentwood home, an empty bottle of sleeping pills near her body.

Schoolboys could recite her famous measurements (37-23-

37) and her photos, nude and otherwise, had appeared in practically every periodical in the world.

But on her coroner's call sheet, tagged to Crypt 33 in the morgue, were these unrevealing statistics: Weight 117 pounds, height 65½ inches, hair blonde and eyes blue.

Next of kin—Gladys Baker, mother. Address unknown.

The coroner's office said it has received a telegram from Miss Monroe's half-sister, Bernice Miracle of Gainesville, Fla., authorizing release of the body to ex-baseball star Joe DiMaggio, second of the actresses' three husbands, or to Milton Rudin, her lawyer. They presumably will make funeral arrangements.

Her mother, a patient in mental institutions for most of her life, was last confined to a home in nearby La Crescenta.

Marilyn, who had shifted for herself since early childhood, was known to have made a will outlining plans for her own burial.

A business associate said that it had not been found yet and funeral arrangements were pending until its discovery expected later today.

DiMaggio took the first plane leaving San Francisco for Los Angeles after hearing of her death on the radio. He was in seclusion in a Santa Monica hotel.

Playwright Arthur Miller, since remarried, said he was "dreadfully shocked" by the news of his former wife's death.

Miller became Miss Monroe's third husband in 1956. They were divorced last year.

Miller said he had not been in touch with Marilyn for "about a year." He said he did not plan to go to Los Angeles for her funeral.

Marilyn's first husband was James Dougherty, an aircraft worker who she married at the age of 16. At 20 she was divorced from him.

Meanwhile, a special coroner's so-called suicide team prepared a series of tests to officially determine whether the 36-year-old actress accidentally or intentionally took the overdose of pills that investigators believe killed her.

Coroner Theodore J. Curphy said psychiatric tests would play an important part in the verdict.

"Our investigation so far shows that she did not die a natural death, and we can make a presumptive opinion that death was due to an overdose of a drug."

LONDON (CP)—The front pages of the world's newspapers today paid tribute to the magic memory of Marilyn Monroe, the star whose sex appeal coupled with little-girl charm captivated millions.

The story of the blonde beauty's sudden death in Hollywood was splashed across the headlines in every continent and inside the pages were filled with words of sorrow and admiration from her shocked co-workers.

In Europe, her death overshadowed the news of the resumption of Soviet nuclear testing and European Common Market negotiations.

In the London Daily Mail the headline read "Marilyn's Agony" and in the London Daily Herald "The Unhappy Godmother."

The mass-circulation Paris-Journal called her "a woman who was too beautiful to die" and the conservative Le Parisien "a cinematographic symbol of triumphant femininity."

Even TASS, the official Soviet news agency, devoted 100 words to her death and the Rome Communist newspaper L'Unità gave it a four-column headline.

TALKED OF EPITAPH

Donald Zee, London Daily Mirror writer, reported a conversation with Miss Monroe in which she once told him "I'll settle for this" as an epitaph.

The Manchester Guardian acknowledges that the delay lessened hope of eventual agreement on Britain's entry into the European Common Market, contending the two-month delay in negotiations might have some advantages.

The talks were recessed until October after France was reported to have held out against Britain's demands for tariff-free admission of farm exports from Canada, Australia and New Zealand should Britain become a partner in the trade alliance.

They also suffered in silence, carrying the same penalties, the same responsibilities. The case of Miss Monroe, therefore, is an unhappy example."

The Daily Herald says the delay was embarrassing for Prime Minister Macmillan's government, but "a political muddle is still a long way from a breakdown."

The London Times says postponement was disappointing but "better than some verbal compromise which the two sides would interpret differently."

The Daily Mail blames France for disrupting the timetable. "It looks as though they deliberately put forward something unacceptable," it says.

Health insisted there had been broad agreement "over many fields in Commonwealth affairs." But another conference delegate, Dutch Economic Minister Jan de Pous, said the deadlock would make Britain's entry before 1964 impossible.

"I am naturally very sorry. I knew her. She was a nice girl. I am greatly surprised."

Director Billy Wilder deduced from headlines and reactions of people on the streets that it wasn't merely the passing of a Hollywood star. Said he: "It was like the shock wave that hit the world when Valentino died."

Wilder, who directed the star in Some Like It Hot and later boosting the British economy.

BIKINI OH, SO TEENY,
SPANIARDS OH, SO CROSS

GERONA, Spain (AP)—Four Britons were in jail here today for trial on charges of insulting the Spanish flag by replacing it with the lower half of a bikini. The four men are Alan Arthur, 37, Clive Anthony Lord, 27, Charles Edward Clarkson, 23, and Richard Hogger, 24.

Police said they were swimming with two British girls on the Costa Brava when one of the men dived and snatched the bikini bottom from one of the girls. He ran to the flagpole on the beach, hauled down the Spanish flag and replaced it with the bikini piece.

"We intended no harm," one of the Englishmen told police.

Canada Presses For Arms Pact

GENEVA (Reuters) — Canada pressed the Soviet Union today to clarify its proposals for the first stage of disarmament and said failure to do so would place doubt on Soviet seriousness.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief Canadian delegate, noted that Russia had said it would accept 100-per-cent verification of nuclear delivery vehicles in peaceful purposes."

He said Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin knows full well the West will not destroy all its nuclear weapons vehicles until it is certain all Soviet means of delivery have been eliminated.

Inspection teams would have to cover all territories where vehicles might be to make sure none was hidden.

Measles Hit Eskimos

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—One Eskimo dead of measles and five others with serious cases of the disease arrived here by air Saturday night from Igloolik, a settlement on the Melville Peninsula 200 miles north of the Arctic circle.

the first stage of disarmament.

The Soviet Union would witness the elimination of such vehicles, but this was only half the problem.

The more important question, Burns said, is: "What verification measures is the Soviet Union ready to accept to provide adequate assurance that all nuclear weapon vehicles have in fact been destroyed or converted to peaceful purposes?"
